

PLAYDATE

Enjoying time together without serious discussion

DATEIDEAS

1. Create a Love Playlist - You remember love tapes? You would record your favorite music and give to the one you were dating. Download your favorite love songs and create an actual playlist called "Love playlist." It needs to have at least 4 or 5 songs. Don't stop with one playlist. Create a list together from each decade. You can date the playlists or even create different playlists for special occasions.
2. Plan a Picnic - Fill a basket or cooler with bread, goodies, cheese, fruit, drinks, etc. Grab a blanket and head to a park or lake.
3. Go to a coffee shop and take your own board games. Play checkers, cards, etc. while having coffee or a glass of wine together.
4. Visit a zoo or museum.
5. Choose a favorite activity from your junior or senior high days. Bowling, roller skating, miniature golf, go-karts, etc.
6. Cook a multi-course meal. Play with various recipes and serve one course at a time. A great way to have fun with this is to prepare a five-course meal together with drinks. This will be a long meal. Make it as formal as you'd like or as informal and goofy as you'd like.

7. Go fishing on the weekend. This is a great date whether you catch fish or not.
8. To add some random fun to your evening, go to a karaoke bar and sing your favorite songs as loud as you can with people you've never met before.
9. Go on a picture date. Find random sites around Branson and take pictures of one another. To add more fun to it, make a theme around your pictures. For instance, go out as a tourist. Or go out together as if you were living in the 1950's, dress the part, hit a diner and take fun pictures. You could also go as outdoorsy folks and take pictures in Bass Pro Shops or wearing camouflage.
10. Decide on a new hobby or activity together and begin practicing. For instance, you may decide you're going to run a 10k or a marathon together. Start running together to train for it. Perhaps you're wanting to learn an instrument together. Sign up and begin taking lessons and practicing together.

52. How could we spice up that particular room to make it more playful?

LAUGHDATE

Learning to lighten up and not take ourselves too seriously

DATEIDEAS

1. Youtube Date - Spend an hour on Youtube watching great videos that will make you laugh. Here are a few to get you started:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yR0IWICH3rY>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RP4abiHdQpc>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NAFiU6bZ678>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mIMFL9wRaJE>

2. Meet for lunch or go to a coffee shop or somewhere you enjoy being together and take the Laugh52 list and share stories with one another.
3. What's your favorite comedy of all time? Rent that movie for old time's sake and stay home together and laugh. You could even rent a holiday comedy out of season. (Elf, Christmas Vacation, etc.)
4. Book tickets to go see a comedian coming to the area.
5. Set a date night either together or with other couples and play "Whose Line Is It Anyway." You can find a list of the games from the TV show by simply doing a Google search of the show. Have fun with the ad libs all night long.
6. Take a mini-road trip and do karaoke in the car. Sing your favorite songs as loud as you can. Sing the greatest duets of all time. Here are 5 of Billboard's Top Duets of All Time:
#35 - I've Got You Babe (1965) Sonny and Cher
#31 - I Knew You Were Waiting (1987) Aretha Franklin/George Michael
#26 - I've Had the Time of My Life (1987) Bill Medley and Jennifer Warnes
#9 - Islands in the Stream (1983) Kenny Rogers and Dolly Parton
#1 - Endless Love (1981) Diana Ross and Lionel Richie
7. Find an activity neither one of you are that good at and attempt it together. For instance you could go roller skating, ice skating, kayaking, tandem biking, etc.
8. Take out the old yearbooks/annuals. Go through and laugh at yourself. Your dress, hairstyle, etc. Categorize and rank them. Ugliest hairdo. Most gaudy dress.
9. Sign up for a dance lesson. The dance instructor determines the level of fun. If he or she is super strict and serious, that gives less seasoned dancers something to laugh about. This date will force you out of your comfort zone.
10. Spend one hour at an arcade. After you get over your anger at the price of games these days, try some of the physical games (dancing, basketball shooting, skeeball, strength games). You'll get a laugh out of the competitive spirit that rise up in you.

DREAMDATE

Picturing a special future for your marriage and family

DATEIDEAS

1. Walk Down Memory Lane - Bust open those yearbooks and wedding albums. Discuss old friends, classes, favorite teachers, sports and clothing. And don't forget to admire those hairstyles. What do you miss about those days? What do you miss least? If you could go back, what would you change?
2. Coronation Date: Honor each other with the royal treatment. What does your spouse enjoy most? A back rub? Uninterrupted listening? A favorite movie? A favorite meal? Your answer to that question determines what you do on your date. Note: This date is actually two in one since each of you gets a turn receiving the royal treatment.
3. Plan an Annual Abandon - even though it may be years away, plan that trip you've dreamed of taking. Magazines and travel websites will help with the planning. Once your budget is set, put a plan in place together to start saving the money to take your dream trip.
4. Take a day and go house hunting. Again, look around at various homes, dream together and make fun of the way others decorate.
5. Go to a coffee shop together after dinner and take the Dream52 questions along with you. With a piece of paper, begin writing down the achievable dreams you want to begin pursuing for your marriage and family. After you have come up with an agreed upon list of answers, start putting on paper a plan to begin living out those dreams together.

6. Have dinner in Italy. Or any of your favorite cities or countries. Transport the dream location to your own home. Set up décor to match the locale, dress as if you were in that city/country and cook the native cuisine.

7. If there is a hobby or activity you have always wanted to try, use this date night to give it a whirl. If you have never been bowling and would like to learn, give it a try. If it's building large puzzles, sit together and do a puzzle. Perhaps you have never crocheted before but always wanted to learn how. Research it and get the materials together to do it.

8. Set up a horseback riding adventure together and have a picnic along your route.

9. What is the most inspiring movie you have ever watched? A movie that makes you dream and come alive. Rent this movie and watch it together early in the evening. When you're finished with the movie, sit down together and use the passion and energy you have from watching the movie to dream together about your future as a couple and family.

10. Sit down together and put a list of everything you would love to do inside/ outside your home to make it more of what you want. Begin researching building supply stores to find out the costs of each item. You can also search blogs to find cheap ways to redecorate and refurnish to give your home a makeover. Research these blogs together and use a date night to slowly begin a home makeover.

DREAM52

1. At this point in your life, which would you choose to make your life better: better physical health, better relationships, more money, different job?
